

Visual and Performing Arts – Definition Overview:

Simply defined, the Performing arts is a form of art where artists use their voices and bodies to convey a message or artistic expression. It is different from visual arts, in which an artist use paint, canvas and various materials to create art objects.

The Visual Arts gives a way to express feeling, emotion, opinion, or taste through visual means, for instance, photography, painting, sculpting, and drawing. Visual Arts are primarily created for Aesthetic Purposes.

Visual Arts include painting, sculpture, watercolor, graphics, drawing, and architecture.

Also falling in the Visual Arts category is music, poetry, film, photography, conceptual art, and printmaking.

- Performing Arts have ways to express an opinion, emotion, feeling, or taste, through means of performance, like theater, public speech, dance, music, and more.*
- Performing Arts are arts or skills that require a performance in front of a public audience. Examples are acting, singing, and dancing.*
- Other forms of the Performing Arts include opera, theater, magic or illusion performances, mime, spoken word, recitation, and public speaking. (Source)

People attachable, associated, interacting with, or related to the Arts can be as minimal as an acquaintance, a guest attending a concert/event/club, a co-worker or employee, an employer or boss, a nonprofit or business relation, a prospective supportive relation, or a family member.

They're a neighbor if it was local instead of more distant.

In more severe situations affecting litigation directly, they may be prospective co-plaintiffs, eye-witnesses, and witnesses.

Help Lives of Victims in the Arts, including victims in or around Hollywood, victims including of public figures or who are also public figures, varying levels of female public figures, those who associate with the Arts, abuse victims, other victims, witnesses, and their lives based on findings...

In Relation to Perspectives of Fixers -- theater, magic or illusion performances, mime, and camerawork are in particular relevant.